11	The times, dates and locations of these events will be publicised in the newsletter referred to on page 16, on our consultation website: www.nugenconsultation.com and in local advertising and media coverage before they occur	The newsletter advertising the events was posted to all addresses in the Whitehaven Travel-to-Work area between: 6th-11th May 2015. The advertisement was carried by The Whitehaven News, The Times and Star, The Cumberland News, The News and Star, The Northwest Evening Mail, The East Cumbrian Gazette, The Cumberland and Westmorland Herald, The Keswick Reminder and The Westmorland Gazette between 7th-14th May 2015. In addition, NuGen engaged with broadcast and press outlets locally, regionally and nationally, with the result that there was editorial coverage of the consultation, while the NuGen team utilised its relationships with various stakeholders in order that messages about the consultation were frequently carried by social media (Twitter and Linked In).
11	To ensure access for people with different commitments and working arrangements these events will begin in the late morning and remain open into the early evening.	21 events ran from 11.00am to 7.00 pm in the evening. Two events at Whitehaven and Braystones were held on Saturdays. One event was held in the canteen at Sellafield over the lunch time period. The Moorside Information Centre carried an exhibition Monday to Friday and Saturday mornings throughout the ten week consultation period.
13	People in urban adversity: In addition to mailing a summary to all households in the Whitehaven Travel to Work Area (TTWA), we will target geographic areas with higher levels of 'urban adversity' by placing posters in centres of community activity.	Posters were placed in local shops and Community Centres in the main social housing estates in West Cumbria, including Mirehouse and Kells in Whitehaven; in Cleator Moor; in Salterbeck in Workington; and in Ewanriggn Maryport.
13	Those without broadband: As well as mailing the summary to all households in the Whitehaven TTWA we will promote opportunities for engagement in the press, radio and television. We will place posters in communities with poor internet access. We will provide the opportunity for personal engagement through our drop in exhibitions.	Posters were placed within the main social housing estates as described above. Posters were provided to every Parish Council in Cumbria and they were asked to display them on their notice boards. See also how NuGen complied with page 11 of the SoCC, which is relevant here.

13	Geographically isolated communities: As well as mailing all households in the Whitehaven TTWA we will ask Parish Councils in these areas to display a poster with information on our consultation on their public notice boards. We will provide remote access through our web portal. We will also respond to individual requests for more information.	As above.
13	Young people: We will work with schools and teachers to provide information for dissemination and encourage visits to our consultation events. We will also use Twitter and text messaging to communicate information about our consultation.	It has been NuGen's experience that generally, young people will not attend a consultation event unless it is specifically targeted at them. To address this, NuGen liaised with local primary and secondary schools throughout the consultation to offer special opportunities to students to attend consultation events. NuGen was pleased to welcome Beckermet Primary School, Whitehaven Academy, members of the Cumbrian Youth Parliament and members of the West Cumbrian Young Nuclear Professionals to special events. Unfortunately most schools found it difficult to respond to the invitation to attend a specific event on a specific day. Learning from this experience, NuGen has already commenced an engagement exercise with four local secondary schools, Energus and Energy Coast University Technical College (with primary schools to follow) to ensure that such opportunities in the second stage of consultation are engineered in such a way that schools are able to accept.

13	Older people: As well as mailing all households in the Whitehaven TTWA we will send information to facilities for the elderly e.g. sheltered housing. We will also use radio and television to ensure awareness of the opportunity to respond.	In addition to the mailing of all households in the Whitehaven TTWA, posters were sent to group residential accommodation facilities for older people throughout West Cumbria. Radio and television was used as described and NuGen engaged with broadcast and press outlets locally, regionally and nationally, with the result that there was editorial coverage of the consultation, while the NuGen team utilised its relationships with various stakeholders in order that messages about the consultation were frequently carried by social media (Twitter and Linked In).
13	People with disabilities: We will make information available in large print and in audio to assist the visually impaired. We will use radio and television to ensure awareness of the opportunity to respond. To improve access for those with hearing loss, as well as mailing the summary to all households in the Whitehaven TTWA, we will use newspapers and our web portal. For people with mobility disabilities, web portal access will be available from their home location and a Freephone number will be provided should they wish to discuss issues with NuGen. Exhibition venues will have disabled access.	Large print version of the consultation documents were available on the website. The SoCC Summary information was made available in audio form and provided to Copeland and Allerdale Talking Newspapers. All exhibition venues had disabled access. Radio and television coverage was secured as above. All planned proposals were met.

13	Holiday homeowners, tourists and visitors: We will hold some events in major tourist centres such as Keswick, Kendal and Ravenglass. We will also advertise in the national press. Web access to the consultation will be available to second homeowners living anywhere. We will also use Twitter and text messaging to communicate information about our consultation.	Events were held in these locations. The consultation was held in the height of the holiday season. An additional event was held at Braystones Caravan Park at a weekend. Local, regional and national media coverage was secured and social media used as described above.

We will also use Twitter and text messaging to communicate information about our consultation.	Fulfilment in these aspects previously described.
14	This stage of the consultation will be focused on strategic issues for the Moorside Project, including NuGen's requirements and approach, broad locations and search areas for 'Associated Development', preliminary environmental information compiled by NuGen to date on the Moorside Project, and an indication of the scale of development.	The consultation material provided during Stage 1 consultation focused on strategic issues and provided the necessary information for a strategic options consultation, which will inform the Moorside Project as it progresses through the design process.
15	We will not be seeking your views on the need for a nuclear power station, as this has already been decided by the Government through the national policy statements.	We did not seek people's views on the need for a nuclear power station. However, we did ask people if they supported the nuclear power project at Moorside, in order to put in context the more detailed responses received.
